STAY

connected

Westvale Park offers excellent transport links, making it a favoured community for those who work in the capital yet want to enjoy the very best of countryside living. Two new dedicated bus routes run from Westvale Park to Horley where regular high-speed trains serve London Bridge and London Victoria. Gatwick Airport's train station - just three miles from the development - also connects Surrey to central London.

It's a quick 17-minute drive to Crawley, and an access road links Westvale Park to the M23 and M25 motorways, so car owners can get into the capital with ease. Thanks to the proximity of the UK's second largest airport, international travel couldn't be more convenient.

INTERNATIONAL TRAVEL ON your doorstep

International travel is also closer than you think. With destinations such as Paris, Amsterdam, Madrid and Rome a short flight away, living close to Gatwick airport which is only a 9 minute drive away is another reason to live at Westvale Park.

EXPLORE THE GREAT outdoors

One of Westvale Park's most alluring features is the picturesque countryside that surrounds it. To the north are the protected Surrey Hills, a designated Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty. True to its name, this majestic rural playground is made up of emerald green fields, ancient woodlands and sweeping valleys, home to scenic walking trails and Olympic cycle routes. Enjoy the fresh air by getting active, or simply unwind with a lakeside picnic - all the while taking in those breathtaking views.

Nearer still is Reigate Priory Park - perfect for an after-work kickabout on the football pitch, or a game of tennis on one of four courts. The children's play area (complete with giant wooden ship) and its friendly café make this a popular meeting spot amongst families, especially during the summer months when the park provides water fun games for the little ones.

Community is at the very heart of everyday life here. Designed to meet the demands of modern lifestyles, Westvale Park will be home to a host of facilities that include a community centre* and several local shops* which all help to cultivate a genuine, village-like feel from within.

Enjoy the luxury of having restaurants and pubs right on your doorstep, making it even easier to socialise with your neighbours. Westvale Park's beautifully landscaped public spaces, play area and on-site primary school makes this an ideal and secure place to bring up children in one of Surrey's most desirable spots.

Westvale Park

Nestled between tranquil countryside and charming towns, Westvale Park offers the ideal balance between rural and urban life.

Start the morning with a walk through the picture-perfect Surrey Hills, and end it with a refreshing drink in the cosy Ye Olde Six Bells Pub. On weekends, seek out the best local produce at Redhill's farmer's market, sink into the sofa with the papers at Horley's popular Serendipity Café, or check out the offering at the town's much-loved Archway amateur theatre.

When it comes to eating out, you're spoiled for choice. Italophiles will love Zeno in Horley, an upscale restaurant serving the best seafood risotto in town, while Reigate's on-trend Buenos Aires steakhouse pairs up Argentine chargrilled sirloin with a velvety Malbec. It's hard to choose from Redhill's excellent array of pubs, but locals love the Sunday Roast at The Home Cottage.

Horley, Reigate and Redhill are all perfectly-sized towns that retain a friendly village-like feel, yet still offer high street favourites that sit comfortably next to unique, family-owned boutiques. Simply put, there's a reason why this trio of towns are highly desirable destinations to call home.

FIRST-CLASS education

Surrounded by some of Surrey's best-rated schools, you have the luxury of choice when it comes to education. From traditional to alternative schooling, there's an impressive representation across the board - all of them just minutes away. Among the area's most popular are Meath Green Infant and Junior Schools, and the independent Lingfield College (rated 'Excellent') which takes students from the ages of two to 18. Horley's Willow Tree Montessori Kindergarten and Toad Hall Nursery are just down the road too, but for an even shorter school run, there will be the brand-new Westvale Park Primary within the development itself.
